Martine Emdur

Martine Emdur is part of a new movement of artists representing the landscape without referring to traditional Australian clichés. Her beautifully rendered images of our coastline have rapidly built her a large and enthusiastic following. She describes her work "It's just water. No peripherals. I've spent a really long time trying to learn about how it all flows and how to paint it. The patterns. The flow, the light going through it. The circles of light in the water."

Emdur is a highly prized artist including a two time finalist in the prestigious Archibald Prize.
